Fostering Excellence: AASTMT's Multi-Campus Housing and Subsistence Experience

The Arab Academy for Science, Technology and Maritime Transport (AASTMT) provides student housing and residential-support services that help reduce the financial and practical barriers associated with higher education. The Academy's approach links housing provision to student welfare, academic continuity and inclusive urban development, combining managed accommodation, food and subsistence services, student guidance and case-assessed financial assistance. Its Housing and Subsistence function and Deanery of Student Affairs frame accommodation not simply as a place to stay, but as a secure setting for learning, social integration and personal development. Across Alexandria (Abu Qir Main Campus), Port Said, El Alamein and Aswan (South Valley), AASTMT communicates student services through campus-based and central administrative channels.

The Academy's 2024/2025 low-income student-support records affordability mechanism: students facing financial hardship may receive university accommodation at nominal fees, and exceptional cases may be granted full exemption following committee review. Those arrangements connect housing access, social inclusion and student retention.

Institutional Housing Facilities - Multi-Campus Housing Provision and Affordable Access

Alexandria — Abu Qir Main Campus

The central accommodation portal reports six student hotels within Abu Qir Campus, including single and double rooms and a separate facility for female students. Managed housing and on-site services support proximity to education and campus life.

Port Said

The AASTMT accommodation portal lists single-, double- and triple-room housing in Port Said, while the branch site provides another description of housing units and capacities. Both evidence sources establish provision; differing counts should be reconciled before a time-specific capacity claim is made.

Progress Review, On-Site Assessment, and Institutional Inspection of El Alamein Student Residence “Sakan Misr”

In El Alamein, New Alamein City, on 23 June 2025, during a campus visit, the AASTMT President inspected ongoing work and developments at the new student residence and reviewed its facilities with residence management. The programme addressed arrangements for student accommodation, care and recreational opportunities. On 29 September 2024, AASTMT’s President inspected the new Sakan Misr student residence, meeting students, parents and campus representatives and reviewing residential rooms, dining spaces and communal gathering areas. The visit provided documented leadership oversight of the physical housing environment and associated welfare services. By reviewing the buildings and the facilities on which resident students depend, AASTMT demonstrated operational attention to housing quality, residential stability and the conditions required for academic progress.

Dedicated Student-Housing and Welfare Inquiry Channel

The Deanery of Student Affairs announced a dedicated daily contact channel, operating from 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m., for student questions concerning housing, meals, buses and related support services. By consolidating access to information about residential arrangements and essential campus services, the initiative improved the clarity of student-facing administrative support.
